Secrets of the GLT Recycled Music Sale

Crossroads Center, Normal (formerly the Factory Outlet Mall)

August 14 — GLT members only Preview Sale *

August 15-16 — 9 am - 9 pm • August 17 — noon - 5 pm

A lot of heavy lifting goes into the GLT Recycled Music Sale and a lot goes on that you may not know (unless you've volunteered to help sort records).

1. Looking for John Denver? Neil Diamond? Engelbert Humperdinck? (Aren't we all???) You'll find them and some other hard-to-categorize artists in several categories: Pop/Rock, Easy Listening, Country. It really depends on the album and the volunteer who sorted and categorized it, and has often been the basis of a lively debate.

2. Likewise, you might find Air Supply under "S" or "A" and Jethro Tull under "J" or "T." You might also find The Police and other bands beginning with the word "the" under "T." One sorter's head nearly exploded when trying to file the band The The.

3. Some donations smell funny. It's unavoidable. Some records are stored in funny places. Think of it as an added sensory experience of the sale.

4. Records are grimmer than you might think. Wear something you don't mind a little dirt on and stick some hand sanitizer in your back pocket.

What's not a secret is the potential to find great stuff. One story goes that a Dick Dale album purchased for a dollar at the sale was sold for $70 in London. It happens. The sale is also rife with stories of "I've been looking for this album for years."

All LPs, Dick Dale or otherwise, are a buck. CDs are $3. There's also a supply of speakers and stereo equipment from gently-used to good-for-parts. We're never sure of what we'll have, but our engineer looks everything over pretty carefully. Prices run $5 - $100. An organ seems to show up at most sales - this year's model is a Wurlitzer, going to the highest bidder in a silent auction.

We're back at the Crossroads Center — thanks to their generous donation of a storefront and unlimited parking.

GLT Memberships available at the door.*

Honestly, you'll never have a better time volunteering than when you help with this sale. LOTS of hands are needed for sorting and to staff the sale.

DONATIONS

We're happy to accept just about anything musical — the one exception being those heavy, heavy 78s. We'll take all the rest of it though. LPs, CDs, commercial cassette tapes (we can't resell homemade tapes), WORKING musical equipment, instruments, sheet music, laser discs, 8-tracks. This year we are also accepting movie videos and DVDs. All proceeds go to the GLT Equipment Fund.

Recycled Music Sale Drop-off Locations 2008

These business friends have kindly agreed to help GLT collect your donations from July 1 through August 5. After August 5, donations should be taken to the sale location at Crossroads Center.

GLT News Wins Another Regional Murrow Award

by GLT News Director Willis Kern

Charlie Schlenker

Jim Browne

Willis Kern

Maybe it's the challenges brought forth by our government leaders in Illinois that have caused the quality of local radio journalism to ratchet up a notch or two. Or, perhaps something is just in the water. Whatever the reason, Illinois radio stations took the majority of this year's Edward R. Murrow Awards in Region 7, which includes stations in Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio. The awards come from the Radio Television News Directors Association.

GLT won its seventh regional Murrow in the past four years, to go along with the two national Murrows secured by assistant news director Charlie Schlenker in 2006 and 2007. Charlie's newswriting compilation snagged another Murrow this year, the third in a row he has claimed in that category. Sixteen of the twenty-four Murrows handed out this year went to Illinois stations, with all but one of those honors going to public radio stations throughout the region.

In addition to winning yet another Murrow, GLT News was honored in April with more excellence in journalism awards from the Illinois Associated Press. For the third straight year, GLT was the most-honored downstate public radio station, winning awards in a wide variety of categories including Best Reporter (first place), Best Newswriter (first and second place), Best Newscast (first place), and Outstanding News Operation (second place).

While it's gratifying to win awards and it's humbling to be singled out by our peers, it's most satisfying to know that listeners continue to financially support GLT's commitment to local journalism. And for that, the GLT News team says, "Thanks!"

There are lots of opportunities to mend that hole in your soul with all the blues festivals in the area this summer. GLT is packing up the tent and the flaming guitar blues t-shirt and heading off to soak up the music and the sun. Here's where we'll be:

Nothin' But the Blues Festival

July 18 – 19 • Tri-Lakes • Bloomington, IL

Nothin' but soulful horn players alongside screaming guitars and sultry female vocalists. Nothin' but the beautiful grounds of Tri-Lakes with the sun going down. Nothin' but tasty, traditional southern-style food. There really isn't anything nothin' about it. This festival has everything a blues lover could ask for.

GLT Nothin' But The Blues Fest Weekend — On Air

July 11–13

We'll feature songs from the artists and give away tickets to the festival.

This year's lineup includes artists from the regional blues hotbeds of Chicago and Detroit, and as far away as New York and Los Angeles. Friday night features Teeny Tucker and Larry McCray. Saturday's lineup includes Janiva Magness and The Holmes Brothers. (See pg 8 for recommended releases from these two artists.) It's a family friendly event where parents can hang out with the GLT staff while kids get free harmonicas and lessons from local favorite, Steve "The Harp" Mehlberg.

Friday Lineup:

6:00 pm Cleveland Fats
7:00 pm Mike Wheeler Band
8:15 pm Teeny Tucker
9:30 pm Larry McCray

Saturday Lineup:

Sweet Corn Blues Festival

August 23–24 • Uptown Normal • Free!

The Sweet Corn Blues Festival is a celebration of the annual harvest and local blues talent. Sponsored by the Uptown Normal Business Association, The Town of Normal, and GLT, the festival is also a farewell to the long days of summer — one of the last hurrahs before school is back in session and the temperatures start to fall.

Of course, what we like best about it is the music. A hearty thanks goes out to our stage sponsor CEFCU. This is year 20 for the festival, making it a corn-estone of the community's events. Sorry, that was corny.

The CEFCU Blues Stage will feature the music picked from the ripe field of blues musicians in the area.

Budweiser Illinois Blues Festival

August 29–30 • Riverfront Park • Peoria

20 years, 20 bands, 20 bucks. The Budweiser Illinois Blues Festival celebrates its 20th anniversary at summer's end this year, with a party so hot, they had to put it next to a river to cool it down.

Laid out along the scenic riverfront in Peoria, three performance stages offer plenty of blues styles to choose from. Whether you prefer the intimate GLT acoustic stage, or the big brassy steam coming from a full horn section, or a couple of wailing guitars, it's all here. Musician workshops and educational seminars celebrate the history of the blues. Food vendors, artist booths — you clearly have to come back for the second day.

Proceeds from this event help fund the Illinois Blues Coalition, which supports local blues societies, blues musicians, and blues music education by offering grants and scholarships to help fund projects that preserve the history and promote the future of blues music.

Three stages including:

Tommy Castro Band with The Legendary Rhythm & Blues Review
featuring Bernard Allison, Magic Dick, and Deanna Bogart*

Lonnie Brooks
Tinsley Ellis
Sandra Hall

E. C. Scott
Jimmy Burns*
Rooster Alley

Sally Weisenburg &
Her Famous Sidemen
Steve "The Harp"
Mehlberg and many more.

Advance 1-day: $20 Advance 2-day: $30

Tickets available at illinoisbluesfestival.com/tickets (prices go up at the gate)

*See pg 8 for recommended releases from these bands.

GLT Illinois Blues Festival
Weekend — On Air

Aug 22–24

We'll feature songs from the artists and give away tickets to the festival.

You can find lots of blues this summer. See pages 5-7 for details and lineups for some of our favorite festivals. GLT Music Director Jon Norton especially likes the following releases from artists you can see live this summer.

Janiva Magness Do I Move You (Northern Blues)

By the time Janiva Magness was 16, she had lost both parents to suicide, gone through 12 foster homes in two years, struggled with drugs, and given up a child for adoption. If what doesn't kill you actually makes you stronger, then Janiva Magness could whup Superman in her sleep. When she sings her blues, and soul, and R&B, on Do I Move You, you feel her pain to your very core.

The Holmes Brothers State of Grace (Alligator)

Blues festivals and blues radio stations are incorporating the bluesy gospel of groups like The Holmes Brothers into their mix with rousing success. GLT has been playing State of Grace for a year and a half. The song Those Memories, featuring additional vocals from Joan Osborne, still elicits enthusiastic listener phone calls to GLT every time it's played. A gospel gumbo of Lyle Lovett, Cheap Trick, and CCR covers, this CD will add a little filé to any blues library.

Jimmy Burns Live At B.L.U.E.S (Delmark)

Those who saw Burns at the 2007 GLT Summer Concert rave about this veteran of the blues who is breaking out of his undeserved obscurity. B.L.U.E.S is the famous club on Halsted Street in Chicago where Burns recorded this great groove. His musical wit and personal warmth come through in this live setting of blues, soul, and R&B.

The Legendary Rhythm & Blues Review Command Performance (Delta Groove)

This is a powerful, fun, live romp through blues and R&B at various California venues and aboard the Legendary Rhythm & Blues Cruise. Tommy Castro leads an all-star cast that includes Ronnie Baker Brooks, Deanna Bogart, and Magic Dick, founding member of the J. Geils Band. If you want to dance and feel good, Command Performance will get you spinning in the right direction.

Acousticity™ host Bruce Bergethon has unearthed another gem of a band that we like so much, we're bringing them to town for you to see live. See page 14 for information about The Infamous Stringdusters concert. Here he reviews both of their CDs along with two other acoustic jewels he's found.

The Infamous Stringdusters Fork in the Road (Sugar Hill)

An auspicious debut from a hot bluegrass sextet that formed in Nashville only a few years ago. Given their age, the group boasts substantial pedigree as both sidemen and leaders. More to the point, they have an intuitive musical chemistry that thrillingly underpins a trio of outstanding lead singers. Right off the bat, they sound like a great band, even on their first release.

The Infamous Stringdusters The Infamous Stringdusters (Sugar Hill)

A year and a half later, the Dusters are operating at an even higher level. Maybe it's the non-stop touring, maybe it's the uniformly high level of their songwriting (five of the six contribute material), maybe it's the stewardship of producer Tim O'Brien. This set of tunes evokes all aspects of the evolving music we call "bluegrass," from banjo/fiddle duets through three-part harmony to newgrass virtuosity.

Caroline Herring Lantana (Signature Sounds)

Herring's songs manage to achieve a perfect balance of literary craft and emotional resonance. Many of them limn Southern panoramas in ways that startle, even if the landscapes seem familiar and archetypal. Of special note are her "female murder ballad," Paper Gown, and Lover Girl, a beautiful song about the mother/daughter bond.

Jimmy Gaudreau & Moondi Klein 2:10 Train (Rebel)

Mandolinist Gaudreau and guitarist/vocalist extraordinaire Klein were half of the distinctive quartet called Chesapeake. Here, they perform some of the same songs they recorded with that band in a duo setting. They recreate the still fertile intimacy of the great "brother duet" sound that is at the foundation of bluegrass, though this is in no way a traditional bluegrass CD. It's timeless chamber music, produced by friends with great taste and the ability to play whatever they hear.

New 24-hour News Channel

Technological advances will allow us to bring you three public radio stations in the next few months. In addition to our current format mix, you'll hear an all-blues station and an all-news and information service (schedule below). HD Radio, or Hybrid Digital Radio, will allow you to hear our stations, provided you upgrade to a new radio that receives HD Radio signals. Very soon at wgl.org, you'll be able to listen to our news and information station and pass along your suggestions. In September, we'll begin broadcasting.

The Infamous Stringdusters are the new vanguard of acoustic music. Well-crafted songs, vivid arrangements, instrumental virtuosity, wrapped up with equal parts improvisation, individuality, and tight harmony make this band the very definition of American acoustic music. These young wizards of bluegrass are equally comfortable with jazz, folk, blues, and country. Music enthusiasts everywhere have decided that if this is bluegrass, then they LOVE bluegrass.

Drawing on the talents of up-and-coming Nashvillians Andy Hall, Andy Falco, Chris Pandolfi, Jeremy Garrett, Jesse Cobb, and Travis Book, the Infamous Stringdusters manage to balance a fluency in old-timey bluegrass with indie jamgrass sensibilities.

Their first release, Fork in the Road (Sugar Hill 2007) was named Album of the year by the International Bluegrass Music Association. Its title track was named Song of the Year, and the band itself earned the honor of best emerging artist in a competitive field. Their latest self-titled CD was released in June of 2008. It represents all the band has become during two years of intense touring and brotherly jamming. See pg 9 for reviews of both CDs.

Their stop in Normal is one of those in-on-the-ground-floor experiences that we thrive on at GLT. Our own General Manager and Acousticity™ host Bruce Bergethon discovered these virtuosos and it took very little convincing to get Events Director Linda Healy to agree that we needed to make a space on the events calendar to bring The Infamous Stringdusters in for a live concert.

After all, based on Bergethon's recommendations, we were in the company of acoustic greatness twice before — with Nickel Creek in 2003 and again in 2005 with the Greencards. Trust us, this is going to be one of those concerts you'll be talking about for years.

The acoustic acumen of The Infamous Stringdusters can only be matched by the impeccable sound of the Center for the Performing Arts Concert Hall. This is truly a rare opportunity to see the best of the best playing a perfect hall.

Tickets are on sale now and are available only through GLT at: wglt.org or at (309) 438-8910.

Jay Goldberg Events & Entertainment

If there really is a fountain of youth, Jay Goldberg of Jay Goldberg Events & Entertainment has found it — it's music. For his entire adult career, Jay has been able to combine his love for music with his entrepreneurial spirit in a successful and youth-preserving career.

In the seventies, Jay was a shareholder of Co-op Records & Tapes. In an effort to increase sales, the regional chain began selling tickets for events that Jay produced and promoted. This set in motion a 30-year career.

Jay has a million stories of musicians and performances from the years. One unforgettable memory was of an amazing, but unknown, guitarist who opened for the Monkees. While producing the Monkees' 25th anniversary tour, Jay learned it had been Jimi Hendrix!

This year is a 20-year milestone for one of Jay's most popular events: The Illinois Blues Festival that's been rockin' the Peoria Riverfront every Labor Day weekend. See pg 7 for festival details.

Downtown Bloomington Association

One of this year's most fitting sponsors for the GLT Summer Concert was the Downtown Bloomington Association (DBA), a non-profit advocacy group whose mission is to revitalize and support downtown residents and businesses. Their support takes form in many ways, including coordinated planning, grant assistance, advertising, and promotion of downtown events.

Other annual events facilitated by the DBA include Hot August Nights, Tour de Chocolat, Springfest, Tour de Metro, Bloomington Wheels Cruise, and Once Upon a Holiday. The DBA also coordinates the Downtown Bloomington Farmer's Market, which continues to grow in size and scope every year. Visitors will find that the Market opens and closes a little later this year (7:30 am – noon) and now features several activities for the kids. The Market will be open every Saturday morning through October 25 on the courthouse square, with the exception of a special Thanksgiving Market on November 22 in the U.S. Cellular Coliseum.

If you are interested in shopping, dining, working, playing, or living downtown, start your trip at www.downtownbloomington.org.

American Concierge Magazine

If you don't have something nice to say, don't say it at all. We've probably all been given that advice at some point in our lives, and George Amaya, founder of American Concierge Magazine, has incorporated that philosophy in everything he publishes. American Concierge Magazine is a free quarterly publication that highlights the best that Bloomington/Normal has to offer. Their mission is "to promote the community at its best."

Every issue features articles about local businesses, organizations, artists, and community events in a high-quality, full-color magazine, and is available for free at dozens of locations around the Twin Cities and beyond.

In addition to being a valuable resource for readers, American Concierge Magazine offers its ad partners professional quality photography and graphic design services. They also offer custom printing and direct-mail services from design to delivery.

Whether you want to read about the best Bloomington/Normal has to offer, or you think your organization fits that description, you'll undoubtedly find American Concierge Magazine to be a helpful resource.

McLean County Museum of History

For more than 100 years, the McLean County Museum of History has been celebrating the historical significance of our area. Housed in the stately Old Courthouse on the square in downtown Bloomington, the museum is preserving another piece of local history.

The museum has recently re-affirmed its accreditation status with the American Association of Museums — a status it has held since 1984, ranking it among the top 5% of museums in the country. Accreditation is earned through demonstrated excellence in collection care, exhibitor development and execution, financing, fundraising, and education.

In addition to the permanent exhibits chronicling the history of the pioneers and the life of early McLean County settlers, temporary exhibits are regularly displayed for museum visitors. A Turbulent Time: Perspectives of the Viet Nam War opened this January and will be on display until 2010. It examines how McLean County residents were involved with, and reacted to, the war. Blossoms & Blooms, Watercolor Painting from the Prairie features lithographic prints created by the Prestele family for Bloomington's F. K. Phoenix Nursery, the largest of its kind in the mid-west in 1867.

For more information about the museum, visit www.mchistory.org.
